MARKET COMMENTARY

In September, the Philippine fixed income market experienced cautious optimism following the Fed's first rate cut of the year to 4.00–4.25%, signaling a dovish stance with expectations of two more cuts by year-end. Domestically, the Bureau of the Treasury maintained strong auction momentum across various maturities, with robust demand for issuance. Inflation is projected to remain between 1.5% and 2.3%, primarily driven by food prices and energy costs, though risks persist from supply shocks. In the secondary market, yields generally declined, especially at the short end, reflecting expectations of continued monetary easing. Peso fixed income funds remain overweight, with a focus on the belly and long-end of the curve to capitalize on attractive carry, supported by easing monetary policy and manageable inflation risks heading into Q4.
