MARKET COMMENTARY

The Nasdaq 100 outperformed the S&P 500 in October, amid a cautious environment following the Fed's rate cut to 4.0% and signals of potential near-term stability. The market was influenced by a government shutdown that temporarily paused key economic data releases and by Fed Chair Powell's remarks suggesting a December rate decision remains uncertain. Technology giants like Microsoft, Alphabet, Amazon, and Apple delivered strong earnings, boosting overall sector performance, while Tesla and Meta missed expectations. Investor focus is shifting toward upcoming earnings reports and the December Fed meeting amid volatile macro conditions. The market remains sensitive to policy signals, with risks including economic headwinds, geopolitical uncertainties, and sector-specific volatility. Investors are advised to consider the inherent risks of concentration in high-growth sectors.

Since the target fund is USD-denominated, the return of this peso share class fund was significantly higher than that of its dollar share class as the Philippine peso weakened against the US dollar.

FOOTNOTES

¹ Quoted Asset Management Charge is inclusive of Fund Manager, Custodian and Fund Administration fees and VAT. Please note that the target fund of the Fund charges a separate management fee which is included in the computation of the Fund's NAVPU.

² Volatility measures the degree to which the Fund fluctuates vis-à-vis its average return in a specific period. The lower the number, the more stable the Fund's return is.

³ Fund return refers to the fund performance based on the NAVPU movement of the fund

⁴ Cumulative returns is the total earnings performance of the fund in a specific period.
