MARKET COMMENTARY

Global equities experienced mixed performance in February, with Japan leading gains following Prime Minister Takaichi's election victory and promises of fiscal expansion. European markets also advanced amid positive regional sentiment, while US stocks declined due to cautious outlooks and weakness in growth sectors. Chinese equities fell amid economic concerns, and geopolitical tensions heightened after US and Israeli strikes against Iran. The VIX index increased by 8.4% to 20.6, indicating elevated market volatility. Sector performance was varied, with materials, utilities, and energy outperforming, while communication services, consumer discretionary, and IT lagged. Portfolio-wise, AstraZeneca and TSMC were key contributors, whereas Tesla, Meta Platforms, and MercadoLibre were notable underperformers.

Since the target fund is USD-denominated, the return of this peso share class fund was significantly lower than that of its dollar share class as the Philippine peso strengthened against the US dollar.
